«Skjækerosstua» at the Skjækra Lake

At the Skjækerosstua cabin you'll have the beautiful National Park of Blåfjella- Skjækrafjella as your nearest neighbor.

This is a large and pleasant wood cabin with a comfortable and good quality of living. The area is an eldorado of recreational opportunities from fishing, hunting, berry-plucking to just hiking. It is located just 100 meters from the National Park boundary. There is a well-marked path (60% is made up of dual planks) from the nearest parking lot all the way to the cabin (15 km total distance). Alternatively you can take a plank trail to the north end of the lake and borrow a motorboat from them and boat to the cabin

Location and area description

Skjækerosstua is located at the outlet of the Skjæker Lake with a view over the water, Skjækerhatten (a peak) and the National Park. Gentle rolling hills surround the cabin on three sides with steeper challenging terrain towards the south. In short terrain that will be suitable to nearly everyone.

NOTE!: The trip to and from the cabin can vary considerably depending on the weather so use normal field-sense and be prepared with appropriate clothing, map and compass, and finally let someone know where you are heading (there is no cell-phone coverage in the area).

Available equipment

A boat comes with the cabin and can be found in the boathouse on the lakeshore. Pole fishing and oter fishing is free on the Steinkjer Forest Department lands. In addition renters are allowed to set 3 nets in the lake (nets and an ice drill can be found in the cabin).
